

Current Traffic Notice of Bail Information

The court's traffic case management system produces a daily data file with the variable case-specific data to be printed on the Notice of Bail. Currently, not all the data in each record is used in the notice.

The current vendor does perform some slight transformation on the data before it is printed on the form. For example, the bail amounts in the data file do not contain $ in-front of the amounts. The current vendors adds $ to the printed notice.

The current data file is set to accommodate up to 8 or 10 charges. That is the reason for the large amount of blank space between records.
